Some Other Stuff You Need to Know...

Tellico Village University Announces Start-Up Initiatives

Linda Kaump, president of STAYinTV, announced that her organization has accepted a proposal from Villager Cindy Solomon to be the administrative and management organization for the development and delivery of Tellico Village University (TVU). The concept is to develop a Center for Lifelong Learning for Village residents. The Mission of Tellico Village University is to contribute to a more satisfying senior living experience by coordinating diverse, convenient and affordable opportunities for lifelong learning.

Such programming has existed throughout the United States for about 15 years, according to Cindy, whose professional career has focused on the development and administration of programs for adult learners for businesses, government, health care and colleges. Said Cindy, "Lifelong learning for personal interest and enrichment is just as important to enhancing the quality of life in senior years as are engaging in physical exercise and enjoying social relationships. We pursue learning new things just for the enjoyment of learning just as much as we learn to keep up with newer trends and technologies."

TVU will be delivered to Tellico Village residents on their website to be launched in phases beginning in late September. A Curriculum Committee will be formed soon to conduct the work of TVU. Phase I of this project is to report all Village organizations that already provide some training or educational programming to residents as a decentralized learning community. These organizations are invited to become Tellico Village University Partners. Phase II will be to make available other resources for Villagers' personal or group use of affordable on-line courses and other area college programs that are suited to our population. Phase III, which should be initiated sometime in 2015, will bring classes on various topics to Tellico Village throughout the year. Initial classes will be taught by Villagers who have expertise in some interesting topic and have a desire to share that information with Village neighbors. In the future, the TVU plan includes hosting college professors from the area to deliver "mini courses".

Cindy asks Villagers to help by doing two things. First, be patient while programming is being developed. Second, help identify topics and faculty for class planning and program coordination; or volunteer yourself. She invites interest by contacting her at csolomonphd@att.net. No Tests, No Papers, No Grades, No Homework!

First Fridays for Local Authors Oct. 3

Due to unforeseen circumstances, author Sam Bledsoe will not be speaking on Friday, Oct. 3, as planned. Deb Schmitz has graciously agreed to appear in his stead as the next author in The Public Library at Tellico Village's First Fridays for Local Authors series. Ms. Schmitz will be at the Library 10 a.m.-noon Friday, Oct. 3. Her book, "My Own Money Mechanic; Shifting Gears for Money Makeover You Can Live With," is a fun and informative primer for all things financial. It is great read, especially for women at any stage of their lives. Good shares of women have always had long-range financial planning done by someone other than themselves and don't know plan details nor do they fully understand that long-range plan. Most women at some point will have to be financially responsible for themselves due to the death of the spouse, illness of that spouse, divorce, or simply staying single. Deb Schmitz had a successful career as a senior scientist for Proctor and Gamble. When planning for her own retirement, she found while talking to financial planners that women's issues were not being addressed in the financial industry. After retiring from Proctor and Gamble, she decided to work in the area of insurance and financial planning. She is an independent financial coach and is a Certified Senior Advisor (CSA).

Deb lives in Tellico Village with her husband, Herb. Ms. Schmitz will meet and talk, one on one, about her book and writing in general.

U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary- GPS for Tennessee Boaters – Oct. 7 and 9

Learn about how a GPS will add value to your TN River boating experience. This is a fully updated class addressing the latest technology including smart phones, tablets (pad computers) and high-end color chart plotters. Two, three-hour sessions cover how a GPS works, how to find your position and the position where you want to go, waypoint and route setup and use, practical navigation tips and purchase considerations. The course is interactive; the student works simple navigational problems using a chart (supplied) of a portion of the Tennessee and Little Tennessee Rivers while instructors lend a helping hand as needed. Students are encouraged to bring a portable GPS, however it is not possible to provide detailed instruction for every possible GPS model. The course is based upon a generic GPS; a student is usually able to work the classroom problems using their own equipment which prepares them to take what they learn in class and immediately use it on their own boat. More details for this class can be found at <http://flotilla-12-2-tellico-village.blogspot.com> . Class fee is $30.00* payable at the class. *Couples/families who share course materials may attend for $10 per additional person. Fee collected at first class.
